

ASSISTING STUDENTS IN DISTRESS

When should I intervene?

Intervene if you notice a significant concern or problem affecting the student's well-being or academic performance. Faculty and staff can help through empathic listening, facilitating open discussion of problems, instilling hope, conveying acceptance, and offering basic advice. Students may need additional help and resources to address and overcome the problem.

How do I express my concern? Ask to speak with the student in private. Specifically state your observations and concerns. Listen carefully to what the student says. Avoid criticizing and sounding judgmental.

Is my conversation with the student confidential? No. Only licensed counselors working IN THAT ROLE can maintain confidentiality. We will, however, try to maintain the student's privacy. As a faculty or staff member, you may need to provide information to others who can better assist the student. Under Title IX, as a responsible employee, you are mandated to report to the Title IX Coordinator any incidents of sexual violence, stalking, and/or sexual harassment that involves a student. FERPA permits communication about a student of concern in connection with a health and safety emergency.

How do I refer a student? For non-emergency referrals call Campus Safety at 603.921.1089 stating the reason for your concern. Or fill out a CARE report at NashuaCC.edu/Care-Team
For students in immediate danger to themselves or others call 911.

SEE Something, SAY Something,
DO Something

SEE SOMETHING: Students may at times feel alone, isolated, and even hopeless when faced with academic and life challenges. These feelings may disrupt academic performance and personal relations. It may also lead to difficulties coping and other serious consequences.

You may be the first to SEE SOMETHING that is distressing your students since you have frequent and prolonged contact with them.

SAY SOMETHING: Students exhibiting troubling behaviors in your presence are likely having difficulties in various settings including the classroom, with roommates, with family, or in social settings.

Trust your instincts and SAY SOMETHING if a student leaves you feeling worried, alarmed, or threatened!

DO SOMETHING: Students may not, or cannot, turn to family or friends. DO SOMETHING! Your expression of concern may be a critical factor in saving a student's academic career or even their life.

Police Emergency: Call 911
Or Campus Safety for non-emergency,
